FRASER PRICE CONSULTING - Support for your Business

Launched in September 2003, Fraser Price Consulting Ltd has grown rapidly during its six years of trading. Capitalising on its founder, Neil Fraser's twenty years of experience as a chartered accountant within the finance back office environment, the company specialises in providing project management and management consultancy services to spec, on time and on budget!

Fraser Price is very much a friendly family run business, with Neil's wife Dianne, daughter Emily and son Paul all part of the team. Training for all staff is very much embraced. Emily started there in June 07 as a PA and now runs Bingham Bookkeeping, a separate branch of the business which offers a fast and efficient full bookkeeping service, including year end accounts, vat returns and registrations, monthly cash books and credit control. They can also help worried business owners bring their books up to date; Emily is very approachable and personable and happy to answer questions, no matter how basic they may seem!

Fraser Price Consulting Ltd also specialises in offering advice, support and training on the excellent new Microsoft Accounting 2008 application. The Professional version of this includes the use of the Outlook 2007 Business Contact Manager which gives a business an accounting and customer relationship management system using one integrated piece of software. The team offer as much or as little help as needed, with a choice of either a fixed price contract or support as and when required. The Microsoft accounting package is very user friendly and very visual and can be set up for multiple users and for multiple companies very easily. It is increasingly becoming the accounting package of choice for many businesses and with a low cost of around £150, it much more affordable than some other accounting software packages. Emily is more than happy to demonstrate the software to interested businesses, then can offer support as required.

Other services at Fraser Price Consulting include first line support for Microsoft Dynamics Navision, for which they have very extensive experience and a countrywide clientele. They can help with implementation or enhance an existing implementation with report developments. They also offer application support, with configuration training, data migration, developments and report writing. They offer Microsoft office support and can produce management accounts. They are also able to offer IT services specifically aimed at small businesses, ranging from PC builds / procurement and maintenance to web design.

With any small or medium sized business it is difficult to control every aspect of the business yourself and outsourcing to a company that is an expert in the field can be the ideal solution. At Fraser Price Consulting Neil and his team ensure that every client's needs are met swiftly and efficiently with excellent customer service as part of the deal.
